

Review report for “Expertise and information: an epistemic logic perspective”

In my opinion the author has made substantial improvements on the paper, and I consider the work suitable for publication on its current version. But there are still some typos and the information of some references is not complete. For instance,

- The first line of the last paragraph of the article: “Finally, there is scope to study the interaction between interaction between expertise and trust”.
- The information of the thesis “Evidence in Epistemic Logic: A Topological Perspective” should contain two institutes: besides the one mentioned by the author, it is also a dissertation of ILLC, University of Amsterdam.

I hope that the author can check carefully throughout the paper to change these.
